Guidelines for Session Presenters and Discussants at ASM

Presenting papers at professional meetings is made up of both joys and challenges. Presenting our latest research findings and publications offers opportunities to share and engage in scholarly dialogue with peers and various leading scholars in the multiple disciplines that make up Missiology. In addition to good research and presentation of content, presenters are encouraged to adhere to the following guidelines:

1. Preparation: Plan for a 20-minute presentation, leaving adequate time for questions and dialogue.

2. The Question-and-Answer Period: This is a time of interacting and fielding questions that clarifies your topic and takes the subject further. As an ecumenical society, ASM follows an etiquette that respectfully engages with scholars of differing faith traditions by listening deeply and learning from one another.

3. Follow-up Discussions and Exchange of Addresses: This takes place at the conclusion of the session.

4. Further Suggestions for Student Presenters: For more detailed information, see suggestions at https://www.aarweb.org/node/249.

Prepared by:
Roberta R. King, Ph.D.
2nd Vice-President of ASM
Professor of Intercultural Communication and Ethnomusicology
Fuller Theological Seminary
Pasadena, CA 91182